

The Concept of Unified Science in the left Vienna Circle
Movement : Otto Neurath as a Model
And translating the Manifesto of Vienna Circle the Scientific Concept of the World
Khaled. A Qutb

The traditional concept of the Vienna Circle overlooks the differences and diversity the epistemological approach for each philosophers in this movement. On other hand this traditional concept overlooks the historical and social context which the Vienna Circle philosophers interacted with it when they offered their philosophical and logical ideas. Therefore, it is difficult to determine the only one philosophical framework in the Vienna Circle movement. So. This is what motivated us to address the philosophical movement in the Left Circle Vienna, or what we called the unified science movement by the Austrian philosopher of science Otto Neurath through his concept of unified science.
