Abstract

The considering of feminist philosophy has been increased in the last third of twentieth century through the western academic fields. The woman, with the feminist philosophy has a philosophical insight; it has been elaborated by some feminist philosophers as epistemological system called feminist philosophy.

The feminist philosophy considers two main points:

First: Re-reading the history of philosophy, and, in particular, the history of science.

Second: the feminist philosophers introduce the theoretical and philosophical insights reflect the experience of woman rather than the masculine experience.
