Abstract

This research is an objective attempt to view on a linguistic phenomenon that has been neglected or lost, a phenomenon that has separated the pronoun after “ but “. This phenomenon is a result of the results mixture between levels of the linguistic performance; the follower to "but" in Arabic finds two methods, one: the connection of pronoun after “ but “ , a method that is used on the tongues of the Arabs poetry and prose, and the other: separation of the pronoun after” but” , it is rarely method the usage , The use was made by some people of the Tamim tribe in the general classical language, which was mentioned in two verses of poetry on this usage, but this use was not used for common usage and the consent of the custom in the language. If we isolate the verses of quotation that have been received about this phenomenon, we will not find an effect in poetry poets even if they belong to the tribe of Tamim.

Then the research came in two sections : the first: evidences of the separation of pronoun after “ but “ : an analytical study, has been held to talk about the evidences of this usage, and the other: the reasons of disagreement grammatical: critical study, has been dedicated to illustrate the features of this problem. And then the appendage of the research conclusion, where the most important findings contained in the research.

Key words: separation - pronoun - but - the traditional - Tamim.
