

English Abstract of the Fourth Research

Research Title: Commodity in KhwarizmMarkets.

Journal: Journal of the Egyptian Historian, Faculty of Arts - Cairo University, Issue (48)

Date of Publication: January 2016.

The research conspicuously presented one aspect of the economic life in Khwarizmi region and its importance in the illustration of the economic commodities in Khwarizmi markets. Besides, the research highlighted its importance in showing the region's economic strength as well as its trade relations with the neighboring countries. Moreover, the research revealed some details of the daily life of Khwarizmi residents, and the selling and buying movement in the region that presented the region's economic power basically depended on essential elements; among them were the existence of a list of commodities and goods offered on markets, as well as the distinguished geographical position of the region along with the spread of markets and their variation in Khwarizm. Besides among these elements were the variation of the daily and manual activities of the region's inhabitants along with the great flourishing of buying and selling at the markets. Consequently, it significantly helped to flourish the movement of internal and external trade of Khwarizm