

The psychology of self-esteem between Imre' al-Qais and Antarah

The research deals with the characteristic of self-esteem by comparing this characteristic between Prince Imre' al-Qais and the slave Antarah bin Shaddad. And the psychological factors that were behind the presence of this trait in them, and the impact of that on their two commentaries. and the research stopped there: character traits-psychological crisis and behavior guidance-Manifestations of self-esteem on their two commentaries.