

(Research Abstract)

Developing the Egyptian Teachers Professional Development Programs in Environmental Education Field in the light of some International Trends
(A Comparative Study)

The study aims at:

- Defining the objectives, reasons, methods and international trends of the teachers' professional development in environmental Education.
- Recognizing the most important international interests of the teachers' professional development in environmental education especially in France, Canada, and Belgium.
- Determining the reality of the teachers' professional development in environmental Education in Egypt.

To achieve these aims, the researcher adopted the comparative method. She came up with a suggested outline for developing the Egyptian teachers' professional development programs in environmental education in the light of the international trends and the Egyptians society circumstances