

Aims:

The study aims to investigate the factorial structure of the BREIF among different samples from kindergarten, primary school, prep school and secondary school students to determine the factors of executive functions.

Sample:

Forty and fifteen students reflecting four ages participated in the study .

Results:

it was revealed that the factor structure of the BRIEF consists of three factors: meta cognition, self control and flexibility and it is valid in assessing executive functions among students from different ages.