

The role of mobile activities in providing university youth with leadership skills from a social work perspective

Abstract

The youth is the hope and the future of the nation, so the university education system seeks to qualify the graduate so that his education is commensurate with the spirit of the age and its contents. It is worth noting that the social service has a major role in the field of university youth care through the youth welfare departments in which it operates, and the roving activity is one of the youth care activities and aims to prepare young people and provide them with thought, art and skills on the basis of an educational system and the study seeks to achieve a goal Lead performer: Determining the role of roving activities in providing university youth with leadership skills, The study found that the mobile activity has an effective role in acquiring its members (time management skill - social interaction skill - problem solving skill - emotion control skill - decision-making skill), The results also showed that the social worker has a vital role in encouraging young people to participate in student activities in general and the roving activity in particular.