

Faculty of Social Work

Department of Social Work Fields

Using the life model to develop educators' awareness of the challenges of raising a teenager in the information society (towards designing a training program ).

Dr. Hakima Rajab Ali Zidan

Lecturer, Faculty of Social Work - Fayoum University

Hrz00@fayoum.edu.eg

2020

Research Summary

The aim of this research is to design a training program using the life model to develop educators' awareness of the challenges of adolescent upbringing in the knowledge society and the global continent that includes the whole world in an electronic form in which knowledge innovations are transmitted on millions of digital pages including information and knowledge in various fields and various disciplines, which formed A challenge for educators in the process of raising their teenage children and they need to develop their awareness on how to do the process of raising in a way that achieves positive results despite all these digital challenges. Accordingly, a questionnaire was applied to the questionnaire of “adolescent upbringing challenges in a knowledge society” consisting of three sub-dimensions: social challenges, cognitive challenges, technology challenges, those dimensions consist of (33) words, related to the main dimensions referred to that translate some procedural challenges To raise the adolescent, and to achieve the goals of the study, the researcher used the quantitative and qualitative .approach in analyzing and interpreting the results of the research

The research reached a set of results, the most important of which were: interest in programs to educate educators of the challenges of adolescent upbringing in digital technology, developing educators' awareness of contemporary methods and skills of education that make adolescent upbringing based on lofty values and avoiding slipping and deviation in the negative effects of the web, and encouraging positive .connotations It contains