The voluntary participation of youth is one of the most important pillars of citizenship and democracy in contemporary societies. Participation, especially by the youth, is the real way to mobilize the energies of the rising generations, renew blood in the veins of the nation's social system, and contribute to the development movement.

If the issues of youth are many and varied, the issue of voluntary participation has become the topic of the hour today, and more than ever before, whether in the field of scientific research or in the field of policies directed at educating and educating people.

In the context of respecting the humanity of the human being, the citizen's feeling towards one homeland is only through the cooperation, integration and coordination of all educational, youth and social devices to support this feeling through programs and activities that are presented to every citizen since early childhood and throughout the stages of his upbringing, throughout life and in complete equality of rights Meals and equal opportunities without discrimination as a human right.

Participation is represented in the ideas that members of society express their interests in a positive manner in the light of a national conscience that is formed through educational upbringing institutions that aim to raise the citizen through the family, school, places of worship, university, clubs, youth centers and "civil" voluntary associations.

Based on the foregoing, and based on the relationship between volunteering, youth and NGOs in the Sultanate of Oman, the researchers seek through the current study to identify the trends of youth groups towards volunteering in NGOs in the Sultanate of Oman.
