

Abstract

Title: The Values of Social Capital and Its Relation to Improving the Attitude towards Volunteering Work A Proposed Conception from the Perspective of the Community Organization Method

Published in : The Journal of the Faculty of Social Work for Social Studies and Research - Fayoum University Issue (14) January 2019

Prepared by: Dr. Basma Abdellatif Ameen Abdelwahab

Lecturers at Methods of Social Work Department, Faculty of Social Work, Fayoum University

The current study aimed at: determine the level of social capital values and the level of attitude towards volunteer work for volunteers in civil associations in Fayoum Governorate, and to determine the correlation between the level of capital values among volunteers and their attitude towards volunteer work in civil associations in Fayoum Governorate. Furthermore, To determine the predicted values of social capital that are full of tendency towards voluntary work in civil associations, and to achieve a proposed conception from the perspective of how method of community organization to improve the altitude of voluntary works through the development of social capital values. This study is based on the descriptive studies, and the social survey method was used in a sample style for volunteers in civil associations, and the data was obtained through two scales: the scale of social capital values, and the scale of attitude towards volunteer work, both of them were prepared by the researcher, and they were applied to a sample its strength was (359) single.

The results of the study showed that: the value of institutional cooperation, then national affiliation, followed by social participation, the highest values of social capital in relation to other values with the altitude towards voluntary work, and that the values of social capital (institutional cooperation - social participation - national affiliation) are all predictive of altitude towards Volunteer work except for the value of trust towards others and the institution, and The study concluded by reaching a suggested vision from the perspective of Community Organization Method to improve the altitude towards volunteer work through the development of social capital.

Keywords: Values of Social Capital - Attitude towards Volunteer Work - Community Organization Method.