

Research summary

The role of the Social Fund for Development in strengthening social protection for the rural poor

study applied to a sample of the beneficiaries of the urgent, laborintensive national program in the villages of Fayoum Governorate

Summary: The study aimed to define the role that the Social Fund for Development is in supporting social protection for the rural poor "through studying the application to a sample of beneficiaries from the urgent national program that is intensive in employment in the villages of Fayoum Governorate and to identify the obstacles that stand in front of the Social Fund for Development in achieving social protection For the rural poor, the study also tries to reach a set of proposals that are useful in activating social protection programs for the rural poor

The study concluded that the Social Fund plays an important role through the tendency of private associations that offer programs to employ rural youth in literacy and environmental protection projec