

Cairo University
Fayoum branch
Faculty of Social Work

The role of the social worker in helping rural family planning units achieve their goals

Introduction study

Within the requirements for obtaining a master's degree in social work

Prepare

Salwa Ramadan Abdel Halim

College Teaching Assistant

Under the supervision of

Professor/ Mohamed Refaat Kassem

Director of the Faculty of Social Work for Graduate Studies Helwan University

Dr./Shehata El Sayed Siam

Sociology teacher Faculty of Social Work – Cairo University

1993

The role of the social worker in helping rural family planning units
achieve their goals

Introduction study

Within the requirements for obtaining a master's degree in social work

Salwa Ramadan Abdel Halim Abdel Aziz

Summary:

The study aimed to attempt to establish a program for the professional intervention of the social worker in the family planning units in the countryside through the accurate identification of his professional role and obstacles to help these units achieve their goals. Pre and post using an interrogation tool, interview guide, and analysis of the contents of documents and records for the activity of the family planning unit (target format). The study concluded that professional intervention led to increased knowledge of rural women in the family planning unit in the village And its programs and services, and the professional intervention program for social service led to providing the rural women with the study community a set of information about the methods of family planning and the way they are used and the disadvantages and benefits of each of them. The professional intervention also changed the popular belief among rural women the sample of the study on family planning methods and their harms, and finally reached The study indicates the validity of its main hypothesis that the specialist's practice of the vocational course using a program of professional intervention for social work helps the family planning unit achieve its goals

Key words: social worker – professional intervention – family planning units