

Cairo University – Fayoum Branch

Faculty of Social Work

Community Development Department

The Impact of Implementing community Development Models on the Effectiveness of Development Projects

Among the requirements for obtaining a PhD degree in social work

Study preparation

Salwa Ramadan Abdel Halim Abdel Aziz

Assistant teacher, community development department

Faculty of Social Work – Cairo University – Fayoum Branch

Supervisor

Dr. Abdul Aziz Abdullah Mukhtar

Professor of Planning and Research Design

And the former dean of the College of Social Work

Cairo University – Fayoum Branch

1999

The Impact of Implementing community Development Models on the Effectiveness of Development Projects

Among the requirements for obtaining a PhD degree in social work

Study preparation

Salwa Ramadan Abdel Halim Abdel Aziz

Summary:

The study aimed to describe and define the impact of local community development models on the effectiveness of development projects, as well as to classify the models used in the field of community development in the framework of the interactive analytical framework related to planning for community development, and come up with a proposed vision for the development of the village in light of the actual reality of rural development projects in some of the governorate villages Fayoum depends on this on the quantitative and qualitative approach using the social survey method by sample, case study and content analysis using a scale to study the impact of community development models on the effectiveness of rural development projects in the village of Al-Hamuli – Ibsheh Center Any study found that the study's hypotheses were valid, and recommended that the financial and governmental funds approved for village development projects be provided and that the projects prescribed by the villagers in the village be adhered to .

Key words: planning models – local community – community development