

Abstract

Title: The role of NGOs in achieving social protection for the elderly

Published in : the Journal of the Faculty of Social Work for Social Studies and Research - Fayoum University Issue (18) January 2020

Prepared by: Dr. Ahmed Emad Saad Moustafa

Department of Development and Planning , Faculty of Social Work,
Fayoum University

This study is one of the descriptive analytical studies, where the concept of descriptive research is related to the study of the reality of events, phenomena, attitudes and opinions, studies and interpretation in order to reach useful responses, as determining the role of NGOs in achieving economic protection for the elderly, as well as defining the role of NGOs in achieving health protection for the elderly. The study identifies the obstacles facing the project to protect women against violence in achieving its goals, as well as identifying the obstacles that limit the role of NGOs in achieving social protection for the elderly. The most important results of the study; It is necessary to formulate an integrated strategy for social development that emphasizes the human dimension of the social development process so as to make the elderly the centerpiece and provide life opportunities for the elderly at all levels, and work to enhance their capabilities, enhance their capabilities and expand their options for a better life. Work to strengthen the partnership between civil society, government agencies and the sector The private sector on the one hand, and international organizations and global civil society organizations on the other hand, in order to allow for fruitful cooperation in order to raise the levels of social protection through safety and social security nets that protect the elderly from the risks they face and work to enhance their capabilities and capabilities.